LOS ANGELES, Jan. 15.—Judith Allen, screen actress, sued actor-priestfather Jack Doyle for divorce today, charging he had ignored her and gone about with other women, and that on one occasion he blacked her eye. Miss Allen formerly was the wife of Gus Sonnenberg, heavyweight wrestler.

4-Way Europe Alliance Against Reds S Rapped

PARIS, Jan. 15.—Interested French sources denounced today as "a trap" a reported Anglo-German plan for a four-power European alliance against Communism. Government spokesmen declined to comment, pending lack of official information, but well informed political observers said France could not think of joining such an alliance. They called it a "transparent manoeuvre" to attempt to force France to help Germany isolate the Soviet Union, or, failing in this, to win Great Britain to the Anglo-German bloc. This would swing the European balance of power against France and Russia, they said.

London Refuses To Become Enthusiastic

LONDON, Jan. 15.—Reports of an Anglo-German proposal to invite Great Britain and France to join an anti-Communist bloc were received without enthusiasm here today. It was pointed out Britain was not only holding fast to her determination to steer clear of both Fascism and Communism, but was basing her present policy in Spain on collaboration with France. "Obviously," it was said, France would be even less responsive because of her popular front sympathies.

British Perfect Gas Masks For Use By Infants

LONDON, Jan. 15.—Great Britain announced today perfection of a new gas mask to be used by infants. It was described as the best yet devised, and was said to be perfect in its simplicity with the gas mask development of the home defense.

Large expenditures for navy and air armaments will put Britain in a powerful position to combat enemies of the world by 1939. But before then the twin problems of protection against air raids and increased food supplies at home are being tackled. TELLS OF BABY MARK

TO ADVOCATE OVERHAULING RECALL ACT

Tightening Up Of Main Provisions Asked In S.C. Resolution

Tightening up or revoking of the recall legislation passed at the first session of the eighth legislature of Alberta will be advocated in a resolution introduced at the first annual convention of the Alberta Social Credit League, now in session at the Hotel Macdonald in Edmonton.

The resolution also calls for the recall of the Social Credit party of James Hargrave, M.L.A. for Taber, who was read out of the party at a group meeting at Taber last fall.

Later the group agreed to institute recall proceedings against Mr. Hansen.

TIGHTEN UP PROVISIONS

It was stated at that time that the recall proceedings would not be instituted until after this time, probably in anticipation of a resolution passing the convention looking into the recall of the Social Credit party. The recall bill is the first of its kind enacted in the British Empire. Its main provisions dealing with the recall of a member, is that the petition for recall must contain signatures of electors of the electoral division to which the member represents to the number of more than 60 and two thirds of the number of voters the voters list compiled or available for the last election. The official press conference was pointed by the convention.

PARTY AT END, SHOULD QUIT, SAYS O'CONNOR

Government Stalling For Time to Avert Evil Day, Member Aves

Charging that the Aherbert government must resign if it cannot satisfy the people, Mr. O'Connor, Liberal M.L.A. for Edmonton, said in an address before the Liberal group Thursday on Thursday.

"The present political situation in Alberta," that the administration is aware of its defects and is now simply playing for time in order to avert the day of reckoning as long as possible.

"There are many responsible men in the party and in the house who will leave if the promises to pay dividends cannot be fulfilled. The assembly will have at least Social Crediters stand up and say 'No' to the government."

"I am sure that Social Crediters in Calgary not only repudiate the government but point out that it is stalling for time and unable to do anything to carry out its election platform."

"I urge to oppose."

"These address go further than that. They have stated openly to the radio that they were secretly plotting to vote against the government measures by Premier Aherbert, although one of these measures was designed by the government itself in the House."

"The speaker stressed that to hold office in defiance of definite pledges."

BRITAIN WILL BUILD MANY ARMS PLANTS

New Munitions Factories Planned in Latest Decrees

LONDON, Jan. 15.—One outcome of Britain's vast rearmament program, the building of some of the work now carried out at Woolwich Arsenal to new munitions plants in the north and west of the United Kingdom.

New munitions factories will be built at Woolwich, Glasgow, and Irvine, Argyshire. A large factory at Hereford, in the north, and a smaller one at Shrewsbury, will also be built.

Most of the so-called "danger areas" in the north and west of the United Kingdom will be transferred to these four plants.

The move has been prompted by the vulnerability of Woolwich to air attack and through a desire to facilitate rapid increase of production in an emergency.

Many munitions factories will remain at Woolwich, which now employs 12,000 persons. The engineering department, the design and construction departments and the inspection departments and the stores department will remain at Woolwich in the 15th century.

STREAMS SURGE OVER BANKS IN MIDDLE STATES

CHICAGO, Jan. 15.—Rain-swollen streams surged over their banks in the middle western United States today, threatening a wide expanse of territory.

Torrential rains which reached cloudburst proportions created the most acute flood conditions in years in many communities. Streams approached or reached flood stage in Ohio, Pennsylvania, Indiana, Michigan and Wisconsin.

Forecasts of older weather raised hopes for abatement of rains in some states. However, many families prepared to evacuate their homes in case of further rain in river stages materialized.

Press Licensing Frowned On At Sacred Conclave

Licensing of the press was frowned upon by the producers of the Alberta Social Credit League, now in session at the Hotel Macdonald in Edmonton.

A strong stand on behalf of the press was taken by several newspaper editors present as delegates and January 9, when a resolution calling for a licensing system was tabled.

It is understood that the convention will deal at a later sitting with a resolution calling for more stringent observation of the libel law, or for tightening of its provisions.

Another resolution is one that calls on the Social Credit League to refrain from participation in the political campaign in the election of 1938.

Another call for elimination of the press is also on the agenda. The press is also on the agenda.

SIGNS OF PROSPERITY

From Cape Town comes the kind of news one would like to see Canada sending to the world:
"Employment conditions in South Africa have never been healthier than at the present time."
The sure basis of prosperity is that the demand

Wednesday that no cabinet changes are in immediate prospect. Then why did Mr. Rias take somebody into the cabinet with whom the late Minister was unwilling to be associated.

In his statement in response, the Premier affirmed that this was the cause of the resignation. The Premier's explanation of any changes to be made in the near future.

AGGRAVATING THE TAX- PAYERS

Mr. Thomas Bradshaw of Toronto, who was sent out by the bond-dealers a couple of years ago to tell the rebellious taxpayers of Winnipeg and Vancouver they needn't look for any reduction in bond interest rates, has issued a booklet
on "Trends in municipal debt in Canada."

One evident purpose is to show how insensible municipal councils and taxpayers are to the exceeding generosity with which they have been treated, in that bond rates are now far below the war-inflated rates of 1920. Thus it is shown that "one of our best conducted cities" then had to pay $12 per cent for five year money which it could now borrow at 1.52 per cent; that for ten year money it then had to pay 6.88 per cent and is now borrowing half while on twenty year debentures the rate then was 6.56 and is now 3 per cent.

But the joker in this little calculation is that rates have dropped further in the last two years than they did in the preceding fourfold. Bonds sold up until 1924 are therefore carrying rates
twice or more than twice the rates now quoted as obtainable, and will continue to carry those rates to come.

The cities cannot borrow to refund because the bulk of their bonds are not callable for years.
They cannot borrow for construction because their paying power is over-placed already.

Of what earthly use is it to tell cities which
to the limit of their credit with call-bond contracts bearing high interest rates that they could now borrow half a third of the cost
if they had any credit left?

The ambition of all the large cities in Canada
at present is not to borrow money for fresh capital undertakings, but to get the interest paid on their existing debt down to a figure that will not drive them into bankruptcy. Telling them they must go on their knees and beg for lower rates has plunged them into a sea of bank overdrafts, floating debts and annual deficits, and at the same time has increased the interest on their existing debt. The "sound money" fraternity have reduced rates on new borrowings to live-and-let-live rates, but the same adds insult to injury—and popular aggravation to their former factors which make the bond-holders' investments insecure.

If that is Mr. Bradshaw's idea of a joke it may not turn out to be a very good one. It was needed to inspire a demand for the general refunding of municipal debts, by compulsion if necessary. Mr. Bradshaw's thimble-rigged calculation supplies it.

Questions and Answers

QUESTION: B. C. writes: "For some time I have had a dull pain just under the ribs on the right side, severe enough to make it seem
necessary to go to a doctor, but enough to make
me uncomfortable most of the time, and now
believe it is getting worse. What do you suggest?"

ANSWER: A dull pain just below the ribs
on the right side at the point nearest the navel
then indicates gall bladder trouble. The pain due to appendicitis usually starts in the pit of the stomach and finally shoots down to the lower right hand side, just above the public bone. If
the pain is a little higher, it is probably caused
by gas in the caecum (that part of the large intestine just above the appendix). My suggestion is that you secure a thorough examination
in order to find out what is really wrong. With the modern facilities for examination it should
be easy to discover some definite cause of the pain.

QUESTION: From "Puzzled": "I have before
me a copy of my doctor's report which he gave me after an examination of my gall bladder. There is present some myocardial damage. I haven't
the slightest idea what kind of trouble this is
and I don't appreciate it if you would explain
it to me."

ANSWER: The myocardium is the heart
muscle and therefore myocardial damage would
be a damage to the muscular tissue of the heart. Even though the heart is not a pump,
I believe that you ought to be congratulated
upon the fact that you secured a good examination. The fact that you have myocardial
damage cannot be over-estimated in the case of
the patient with any tendency to a heart disorder.

QUESTION: Evangelist O. P. Lingers: "Do
you believe a good permanent weal injures the
scalp or the color of the hair?"

ANSWER: A good permanent should not injure the scalp in any way.

Poems That Live

THE BRAVE AT HOME
From "The Warrior's Tale"

The maid who binds her warrior's tash
With smile that tells her pain subsides,
While he lies dead on the field of battle,
One starry tear-drop hangs and trembles,
Through Heaven alone records the tear
That shall never be forgotten.

Her heart has shed a drop of despair
As e'er bedewed the field of glory.

The wife who girds her husband's sword,
Mid little ones who weep or wonder,
And bravely speaks the cheering word,
What then befalls her when he lies dead,
Doomed nightly in her dreams to hear
The bolts of death around him rattle.

Her dead as never blood of life
Was poured upon the field of battle.

The mother who conceals her grief
While to her breast her son she presses,
Then breathes a few brave words and brief,
Kissing the petals of the lilies,
With no pain but her secret God,
To know the pain that weighs upon her,
She dies as never blood of life
Was poured upon the field of battle.

MASHED PUMPKIN—Peel and cut a pumpkin into small pieces and cook until tender, allowing to "cook down" so as to avoid pouring off any excess liquid. Season with salt and pepper, seasoning with a little salt and the desired amount of cream. If the canned pumpkin is used, take care in the "cooking" process to keep from burning, adding the cream just before serving.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

QUESTION: B. C. writes: "For some time I
have had a dull pain just under the ribs on the
right side, severe enough to make it seem
necessary to go to a doctor, but enough to make
me uncomfortable most of the time, and now
believe it is getting worse. What do you suggest?"

ANSWER: A dull pain just below the ribs
on the right side at the point nearest the navel
then indicates gall bladder trouble. The pain due
to appendicitis usually starts in the pit of the
stomach and finally shoots down to the lower
right hand side, just above the public bone. If
the pain is a little higher, it is probably caused
by gas in the caecum (that part of the large intestine just above the appendix). My suggestion is that you secure a thorough examination
in order to find out what is really wrong. With
the modern facilities for examination it should
be easy to discover some definite cause of the pain.

QUESTION: From "Puzzled": "I have before
me a copy of my doctor's report which he gave me after an examination of my gall bladder. There
is present some myocardial damage. I haven't
the slightest idea what kind of trouble this is
and I don't appreciate it if you would explain
it to me."

ANSWER: The myocardium is the heart
muscle and therefore myocardial damage would
be a damage to the muscular tissue of the
heart. Even though the heart is not a pump,
I believe that you ought to be congratulated
upon the fact that you secured a good examination. The fact that you have myocardial
damage cannot be over-estimated in the case of
the patient with any tendency to a heart disorder.

QUESTION: Evangelist O. P. Lingers: "Do
you believe a good permanent weal injures the
scalp or the color of the hair?"

ANSWER: A good permanent should not injure the scalp in any way.

The Passing Show

By J. S. COWPER

I've paid previous sales tax on all manner of things of late that went against the grain—such things as Christmas cards, kiddies' toys, flowers, candy, preserved ginger, shaving cream, toothpaste, etc. But nothing seemed so unjust as the fact that I had to pay yesterday on a 20 cent picture frame for an enlarged photograph of the first State Credit House in the city.

It is a picture of the Credit House that was commandered from the back of somebody's lot on Halloween at Bentley, and offered for business on the main street. It is not the only thing we yet have had to the promised Credit House—though 108 places were offered and dropped. I am told—but the legend has the door, "Patrons please use Scrip" shows confidence in the new paper currency.

I'm told that the Mounted Police have been rounding up these places, confiscating them and demanding information as to where they came from. I mention this in case any of our local Canucks would like to try controlling my property or putting me through a third degree about the source of this work of art.

Because of the confidence they inspire, photographs and frames thereof of the first State Credit House ought to be exempt from provincial sales tax.

Dr. Jill Cooley-Batt and her husband, Dr.
J. S. Cooley, are to leave for Edmonton tomorrow afternoon and evening and will be engaged in the exploration of Tibet, and of their discovery of a mountain tribe whose members normally live to 130 years of age. It is a note of that veteran Canadian who at 98 years of age recently survived nine days and eight nights exposure in the snow-capped woods of Tibet to death if he lay down to rest at night
free from the move in below-zero weather.

Looking them Over

By Jack Kelly

Carnival Endorsed

Real Possibilities

Sound Business

YESTERDAY the Council of the Edmonton Chamber of Commerce warmly endorsed a proposal to stage a Winter Sport Carnival in Edmonton during the week starting February 8—the date on which the Alberta Bungalow opens here. It is a plan which promises real returns in sport and business if it can be successfully worked out. Edmonton will never show the headlines with banners and sustained bathing beauties, but it can hold its own with any spot on the continent when it comes to winter sports. As Canada's most northern large city, the Gateway to the North, Edmonton is right in character when it comes to a Winter Carnival.

The valley of the Saskatchewan with its high pine-clad banks and rolling hills is a natural winter playground that should be capitalized on. The new jump of the Edmonton Club is the nucleus of the type in Canada and the jumping that will be done off it should be packed with genuine thrills. The city has more curling ice than any other point staging winter carnivals in this country. While there is plenty of hockey ice available for fancy and speed skating, feature hockey games and similar ice attractions. The banks of the Saskatchewan also offer ideal sites for toboggan slides.

Additional features, such as a derby for northern dog teams, snow-shoe races, cross-country and skis, a horse and girls' dog sled race down Jasper avenue, ice skating races and so on can easily be arranged with a minimum of effort.

Present plans do not involve a complex organization, heavy expenses and high-powered work by any particular group. This has been tried in the past and the experience has been rather unpleasant. The idea behind the present move is simply to get various organizations to stage their major winter sports during the same week. Each organization will run its show on its own with little interference whatever. All will benefit however from bargain rail and bus rates to Edmonton for this week, widespread publicity and the fact that the entire city will be sport conscious for that week.

Tees Will Not Be Trampled On

NO FEAR need be held that such a number of events coming in a single week will reduce attendance at any one of them. It is definitely established that every branch of sport has its own devotees. Curriers will be watching the bonfire, hockey fans will have their big games, skiers will be in their glory, speed skaters will have championship competitions and so will fancy skaters. The city will be like a roaring three-ringed sport circus with fans taking their pick of what they want to see.

February is the do-or-die month of the year from a business standpoint. This week of February 8 to 12 is one in which thousands of people from central and northern Alberta can take off a few days for a little relaxation. If Edmonton can offer an attractive program of winter sports along with special transportation rates, the city should be filled with visitors. Unless they live close to Edmonton, many sport fans will not come in for a single sport event, but a full week of such events will bring them.

It seems that a little judicious planning and co-operation by all the city's sport bodies and business firms can build this Winter Carnival into an annual event whose returns would compare favorably with those of the summer Exhibition. The week's program can be added to from year to year with an amazing number of attractions until it becomes the greatest event of its kind. Winter resorts have the benefit of exceptional scenery, but they have no finer hotel accommodations and their sport facilities are not nearly so ample as those available in Edmonton. In addition, Edmonton can offer shopping facilities, theatres, indoor sports and a host of other attractions that the winter resorts can not compete with.

Here Are Some Possibilities

TO GIVE a couple of examples of what might be done, take the possibilities in a Bush League hockey tourney. A little ingenuity and organizing could provide indirectly the return of scores of thousands of teams from the smaller towns in the surrounding area. Their elimination games could be played in the afternoon on any number of city rinks with the same result as the same number of the same variety risk. Each of these teams means at least 10 people and the majority of them will bring a good number of their home town fans with them.

Another attraction that might be worked out is a bungalow limited to rink from central and northern Alberta. Every town has scores of ardent curlers who would like to see the rink in Edmonton for the big night, but they feel that they lack the class to enter this blue ribbon event. Entry in this special bungalow should be limited to rinks that have won at least one championship during the first days of the Alberta cup, there might be a shortage of ice for such an event, but during the latter part of the week there should be enough available.

Another point which should be kept in mind is that by staging such events, Edmonton maintains its position as the city for its trade area. To keep people in the habit of coming here, making friends and then making them feel at home is one of the finest pieces of business the city can put over.

Cazzell-Clingman Feud To Be Settled Tonight

Fired with a burning desire to settle the feud between the two young men, Indian Ike Cazzell and Clint Clingman will meet tonight at the Cazzell home. As a result of the feud, the two young men will be matched with Cowboy Otis Clingman in the main event of the Cazzell-Clingman feud at the Cazzell home at 8 o'clock.

Clint Clingman will be the Indian last Friday. Inside of a few seconds of the second heat, Clingman had Clingman in the mid air and crashed him on the mat with the well known Clingman style and the darkness of an Eskimo winter settled down in the brain of Cazzell.

A young man-wind-up event is promised with Johnny Walker, a young man-wind-up event is promised with Johnny Walker, a young man-wind-up event is promised with Johnny Walker.

The result brought Maroons within four points of the Canadian season-leading Canadiens, paving the way for the first all-important clash between the city rivals Saturday night.

The net minder may still do so, but only if he is not in the crease. The rule change was designed to prevent players from using the net as a shield.

Score Two In 11 Seconds While Maher Off For Penalty—Stan Mohr Gets Winning Goal In Second Period

Two fast goals in the first period, neither in the second frame and a smart defensive carried the Dominion to a 3-2 win over the Superior last night at the Arena in a schedule Alberta Senior Six hockey clash. By virtue of this victory, the Dominions are now in a three-way tie with the Superiors and Drumheller for third place in the league standings.

With the temperature so low that even a look at the thermometer was enough to give one frostbite, attention at the game was almost non-existent. The few fans who did turn out saw a good hard-fought battle.

Stan Mohr, Dominions' forward, scored the winning goal in the second period. Mohr's goal was the first of his career.

THE STRANGE CASE OF JULIA CRAIG

BEGIN HERE TODAY

JULIA CRAIG, pretty young secretary to GEORGE WOODFORD, a law firm of Woodford & Brooks, is planning to become a night club singer. Julia shares an apartment with AMY SANDERS.

PETER KEMP, also employed by Woodford & Brooks, is in love with her. He gives Julia a letter from the leader, but, in the letter, asks Lamb not to give her a job. Julia discards this and tells Peter everything is between them.

ROYAL RUMBLE, friend of Amy's, becomes up to Julia and a job as a singer, but days pass with no word from Amy.

One day Julia is in a grocery when Peter comes to her. He gives her a letter from the leader. SMITH GARLAND, night club owner, is in the party.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER VI

At the mention of Smith Garland, the best known night club owner in the state, Julia's heart literally skipped a beat. Woodford smiled at her mouth opened slightly and she stared at him unbelievably. He was perfectly well known to anyone with Julia's ambitious nature. Smith Garland was a magic indeed. Once the leader of a nationally known orchestra, he owned two night clubs, one in each city, and had even become a political leader in the state.

"Of course," Woodford went on. "I don't know that Garland can do anything. But it won't hurt to have him hear you. Like to come along?"

"I'd like very much to," said Julia quickly.

"Good. We expect to pull out some time late tonight. But I suggest you go along to the yacht club about 9 o'clock and get aboard. The name of the boat is the Wood Nymph. I'll telephone the skipper to expect you."

"Thank you, Mr. Woodford. I can't tell you how much I really appreciate—"

"Forget it, Miss Craig," he smiled up at her. "I need a singer aboard, and you're a good one."

Julia hesitated. She hurried back into her office, her thoughts in a whirl. For the rest of the afternoon she went through her work with an automatic, and got a little done. She could scarcely wait to get to the apartment and tell the good news to Amy Sanders. But Amy wasn't at all surprised that Julia was to go to the yacht club. She was astonished at its location.

"I knew you'd finally bump into a break, Julia. When a girl wants a thing as bad as you want this, she finally gets there. But it does bow me over that you find the rain how right in your own office. Right in the place you've been trying to get away from."

Julia laughed. "I've found the rainbow. But not the pot of gold yet. Nobody knows whether Smith Garland will like my singing."

"Nobody but Smith Garland," admitted Amy. "But think what a break it is for him to hear you aboard Woodford's yacht. He'll know you're worth for Woodford, and that you're a guest on board—and—"

"Not a guest," asserted Julia. "I'm just going along as an entertainer."

"Any gave Julia a long look. "You really believe that?"

"Why, of course," Mr. Woodford said he needed a singer, and he happened to be in the middle of that lovely radio music."

"Listen, Julia," her roommate interrupted. "I'm about five years older than you. So that makes five more years I've watched the male of the species in action. Woodford could have got all the singers he wanted. He wants you to go along."

"If I thought you were right I wouldn't go."

"Oh, I don't mean he doesn't want you to sing, darling. And I don't mean he asked you for any other reason except that he liked the way you sang. He probably doesn't realize it himself as yet—but he thinks you're a pretty neat dish."

Julia smiled. "You've been seeing too many movies, Amy."

"Laugh if you must at this old gray head," Amy murmured cheerfully. "But you'll see."

It was high to be at the yacht club, which was a considerable distance from the apartment building. Julia quite forgot Amy's well-meant warnings. From the depths of the dressing room she called out. "Anything special you should like on a yacht?"

"I've never been on anything but an excursion boat in my life."

"Don't worry," Amy told her from the other room. "Woodford's yacht is probably the size of a hotel. I'd suggest that while evening gowning outfit, with some soft-soled shoes in case he fairs about the deck palm and a package of sea-sick remedy." There was a long silence, and then Amy added: "I saw some collapsible rowboats the other day. They were made of canvas, and you could probably fold one up and get it in your trunk."

A short time later, at the door of the dressing room, successfully terminating Amy's advice.

When Julia reached the boat mooring the clubhouse itself was dark except for a dim light at the dock in the lobby. The sleepy night-careless directed her to the slip at which the Wood Nymph was moored.

"She's all lighted up," he said. "You can't miss her. Big white ship with a blue stripe."

The Wood Nymph was a big white ship, indeed, far larger than any of the other boats which Julia passed as she hurried along the boardwalk of the mooring dock. Its white paint shown eerily in the darkness, and its bow work gleamed in the light from the cabin and the after deck.

Her big hand, Julia hesitated by the small gangplank which led to the deck. But just then a white uniform figure appeared from the cabin and touched his cap.

"I'm Captain Bakely. Looking for the little nymph?"

Julia told him that she was. "I'm Miss Craig, and I believe Mr. Woodford said I should be here about 9."

"Of course, Miss Craig. Come right aboard and I'll show you to your stateroom. Mr. Woodford and the other guests aren't aboard yet."

When Bakely had taken Julia to her stateroom and deposited her on the berth, he paused a moment at the door. Please make yourself at home, Miss Craig. There are deck chairs aft."

"Thank you," Julia said. "I'll just stay here a while."

He nodded. "I'll tell Mr. Woodford when he comes that you're aboard."

When Bakely had gone, Julia looked about her. The stateroom was small but very pleasant, and furnished in quiet taste. She wondered whether she should accept the captain's invitation to sit on the after deck, but at length decided not. Bakely might not be the owner but he had invited her to sit on the berth, he paused a moment at the door. Please make yourself at home, Miss Craig. There are deck chairs aft."

"Thank you," Julia said. "I'll just stay here a while."

He nodded. "I'll tell Mr. Woodford when he comes that you're aboard."

Debunker

By John Harvey Furbay, Ph.D.

It is generally believed that the skin of a fat person is warmer in the touch than that of a thin person; that the fat person is softer all over than the thin person. Anatomical and temperamental differences have been the basis of this opinion, which has been found to be incorrect. The skin of a fat person is not warmer in the touch than that of a thin person. It is actually cooler outside.
